Well Deserved

The Praise that Comes From Thankful Norway People.

One kidney remedy has known merit.

Norway people rely upon it.

That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills.

Norway testimony proves it reliable.

W. O. Needham, retired farmer, Main St., Norway, Me., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are the only kidney medicine I use, and they always give me relief. Sometimes when I caught cold my kidneys were weakened. Several years ago I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and I began using them. They got my kidneys working right, and when that was done, the uric poison in my system was removed. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Stone's Drug Store, and I know that they can be relied on."

If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Needham had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Foster Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. 32-33

Doctors Said He Had Dropsy.

Some time ago I had an attack of grippe which finally settled in my kidneys and bladder. I doctored with the doctors and they claimed I had dropsy. I tried other remedies and got no relief from any of them. My condition was such that I was unable to work for about two months and the annoying symptoms caused me a great deal of trouble and pain. I was hardly able to turn over in bed. Seeing one of your Almanacs, I decided to give Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root a trial and after taking several bottles was able to resume my work again. I cannot say too much in praise of your Swamp-Root as the results in my case were truly wonderful.

Yours very truly,
ROBERT BALLARD,
Mansfield, Pa.

Hark to the Wind.

Hear the wind blow; and is this the breeze
That played with us only last eve,
That would trifle and frolic and tease,
That awoke, the dull heat to relieve;—
Is this the zephyr that frolicd and danced
As the fragrant dews fell, and the rising moon glanced?

Hear the wind! It is trying to speak,
To tell why it wrecks ships at sea,
To tell why it cools fevered cheek,
To tell why it brings fear to me,
To tell how it twinkles the stars in the sky,
But we don't understand what it says, rushing by.

Hear the wind, how it rumbles and growls
Like a watch dog that threatens and guards,
Like a dog to the stranger who prowls,
Like a strong dog, a brave dog, and hard—
A dog that would never relinquish his grasp
Not while his victim could quiver or gasp.

Hear the wind! Hear its piteous whine
Like a grief stricken woman in pain,
Like a woman half-drunken with wine,
Like a woman remorseful,—insane—
It whines in a voice wholly human
Like a sorrowing, crushed, hopeless woman.

Hark to the wind, how it howls!
Like a wild beast by hunger made gaunt,
Like a beast that impatiently prowls,
Like a beast, hunger-brave, that will haunt
Close the trail of his prey, Man—the master.
Hear him howl as he comes fast and faster.

List to the wind—hear it roar
Like a strong man who's maddened with rage,
Like a man who's been wronged to the core,
Like a man who'd take Death as his wage—
Call it sweet—with his foe in his power
To reckon with just for an hour.

FRYEBURG.

Two Hearings.

On complaint of John P. Hodgkin of Brownfield, Thomas R. Giles of Porter was arrested and taken before Trial Justice Seth W. Fife of Fryeburg on Monday on the charge of selling cider for tippling purposes. After due hearing, Giles was found guilty and fined $50 and costs of $25.58, and in default of payment, 60 days in jail. Giles appealed to the October term of court at Paris and gave bail in $500. F. A. Fox, Esq., of Kezar Falls appeared for Giles.

Archie F. Swett was arrested after the trial on complaint of Thomas R. Giles for catching short trout July 10, and after hearing before Seth W. Thoughts of My Old Home.

"How doth the little busy bee
Improve each shining hour,
And gather honey all the day
From every opening flower."

In a pleasant little village, some years ago, was my home. There was a lovely spot there I should like to describe if it did not take so much time and space; it was just below the house, nearly an acre was enclosed mostly by a stone wall. A little summer house was built there between two lovely pear trees, and near a grape vine, and luscious grapes they were too.

Just below this was what we called a "Bee house," built to store bee hives, frames, boxes, and a large chest set there to receive the sweet food that the bees collected. One fall I counted forty-seven hives, but some of them were transferred, doubled up, three light ones making one. From some hives were taken out two frames and given to one which had but little honey, making it strong for winter. The cellar was nice and dry for them, so they were set in about the last of November or December first.

There was one hive of Italians. Great expense and time had been expended on this one, because it was thought that they were much superior to the black bees. They were expected to swarm most any fair day, and word was left with me to watch them, as the man who always attended to them would be away. About noon they came out in coun lees numbers, and as they clustered in a very favorable place, I resolved I would not call my neighbors to help, as they too might feel the benefit of a very small weapon, sometimes called a harpoon, but oh! so painful.

Well I handled them in about the same way I had seen so many times before, and the bees all went in nicely and went to work. When the men came home there was great rejoicing for there sat a new hive of Italian bees all in good working order. They had a beautiful location, the small apple trees were nearly all covered with buds and blossoms. A bee hive was placed under most of the trees, and it was a most pleasing and delightful spot, in the summer time, for a farmer to have.

More anon on bee culture. Much more could be said in this connection, but I guess this will answer for this time.

Sun and Earth.

According to the astronomical principles of "solarparallax," which means the apparent position of a heavenly body and its true place in space, July 5, the earth reached its greatest distance from the sun, revolving 3,200,000 miles fartber away from the sun than at the time of its nearest approach six months ago, about the first of January, says the Washington Star.

While the direct rays of the summer's sun is so suggestive of its proximity to the surface of the earth, yet in the physics of the heavens and in accordance with the position of our abode in space the earth has the direct rays of the summer's distant sun and the oblique rays of the winter's nearer sun.

In the survey of the mechanics of the heavens there is much to impress and much which is calculated to awaken conceptions as to the stupendous scale on which the heavens are constructed, and all embraced in what astronomers regard "the noblest problem in astronomy"—"the solarparallax." The quantities dealt with are so minute that their sure grasp tasks all the resources of modern science. For the past centuries, taking the semi-diameter of the earth's orbit as the standard measure for the universe, astronomers from Tycho Brahl and Galileo to the present time have been studying the question of the sun's distance from the consideration of its temperature, seemingly "so near and yet so far."

Astronomers of the eighth century hoped to settle the question of the sun's distance, having the occurrence of the transit of Venus and the repeated apposition of Mars every fifteen years as the basis to solve this problem, and thereby come to some permanent settlement of the statistics of our solar system, but they failed—so many were the conflicting conclusions of all the various quantities from which the sun's parallax depends. From 1822, when the great German astronomer Encke published his results which placed the sun's distance from us at 95,250,000 miles, there seems to have been a universal acquiescence which lasted for thirty years, when Hansen, in 1854, supported by Leverrier, in 1858, found an apparent monthly oscillation of diminution of 4,000,000 miles.

After years of exhaustive observation through all the phenomena upon which the sun's parallax depends, and mathematical rules of probabitity by the great astronomers of the known world, it is an honor to the progress of American astronomer and pleasing to the theoretical student of astronomy to recall that on the question of solar-parallax and light transmission three of the leading American astronomers, Profs. Newcomb, Hall and Harkness arrived at practically the same value of solar-parallax of 8.81", which means 92,7000,000 miles as the length of the earth's mean orbital radius.

Milliken lot, and running along line of said lot nine rods to a stake and stones, thence west by said Milliken line twelve rods to a stake and stones, thence northeast seventeen and one-half rods to a stake and stones, thence east nine and one-half rods to the first mentioned bound. Utterly Wretched

Nervous Prostration Long Endured Before Remedy was Found.

Miss Minerva Reminger, Upper Bern, Pa., writes: "For several years, I had nervous prostration, and was utterly wretched. I lived on bread and beef tea because my stomach would not retain anything else. I took many remedies, but obtained no relief until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, when I began to gain at once. Am now cured."

Pure, rich blood makes good, strong nerves, and this is why Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies and enriches the blood, cures so many nervous diseases.

Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolated tablets called Sarsatabs.

OUR SECOND Anniversary and Clean-up Sale of Summer Merchandise Now in Progress

Another year has rolled around and the result shows a marked appreciation of our "One Price Cash" Policy. Our business has steadily increased during the past two years, far beyond our expectations.

Our first anniversary sale was in a way a revelation to the people of Norway and vicinity as it showed our advertised claims were fully backed up with the goods, and that the reductions were real and possitive.

Our second anniversary and clean-up sale has been of even greater importance than the one of a year ago. This is a genuine clean-up stock sale and we are offering our merchandise at decided reductions, so as to clean out this season's goods before the arrival of new fall goods. Positively only our regular stocks are being offered you. There are many remnants, short ends and discontinued numbers which are marked without regard to cost, just to close out quickly.

This sale is an annual event with us and it means genuine savings to everyone who will buy at this time. You'll find everything just exactly as advertised, without exageration, with one cash price to all. SALE CLOSES SATURDAY NIGHT AUGUST 9th.

Norway Municipal Court.

WM. F. JONES, JUDGE.

Tony Vencenzo and James Rae, who have been working on the sewer were arrested early Wednesday morning by night officer, J. Hiram Wiles and were in court Thursday.

Vencenzo had been discharged on account of his unwillingness to work and started in to make it unpleasant for the Italian bosses. It is said he flourished a revolver rather near Henry Borzi's head and threatened him.

The men disappeared Monday morning was gone all day, but showed up about 8 p. m. He was seen about the Italian laborers quarters several times during the night. He was advised to "clear out" which he did early Tuesday morning but appeared on the scene early Tuesday evening. Again Wednesday morning he left returning Wednesday evening evidently bent on mischief and officers Wiles and Libby were sent to the Italian camp to arrest him and James Rae, his companion, who since being refused work on account of his being unfit for such labor took up with Vencenzo.

At 2 a. m. Thursday morning Wiles saw the two offenders walking down Fair street and made the arrest alone. In court Henry Borzi did not claim the men threatened him in person. There were six other Italians in court, whom it is said had heard more or less of the talk and they all refused to testify for the state, consequently the judge discharged them for lack of evidence but said they must leave town at once and furthur added that they would be liable to arrest if they were in town, Thursday night.

Over the Telephone.

Why the Newspapers Sometimes Get Initials Wrong.

(A woman at one end of the telephone wire, a newspaper reporter at the other. Time, Tuesday afternoon or evening.)

Woman—Would you like a little piece for you paper?

Reporter—Certainly. Will you dictate it? I'm all ready.

Woman (dictating)—The ladies' foreign benevolent society of the East Congregational church—yes the East Congregational church—will meet tomorrow afternoon—

Reporter—I beg pardon, but do you want the item to read "tomorrow."

Woman—Why, of course, the meeting is tomorrow.

Reporter—But you see the paper is printed tomorrow morning, and "tomorrow" would then mean Thursday. It ought to read this afternoon if the meeting is tomorrow.

Woman—Oh yes, I see. How stupid. (Resuming dictation (Will meet this afternoon with Mrs. ——Smythe.

Reporter (not understanding initials)—Will you give me the initials again, please?

Woman (speaking in a louder tone)—Mrs——Smythe.

Reporter—I'm very sorry, but I can't get them. Is the first one F as in Florence or as S as in Susan?

Woman—I don't know what it stands for, I'm sure I'm speaking plainly. It's —!

Reporter (patiently)—You see the two letters sound just alike over the 'phone. Can't you tell whether the initial might stand for Florida or Susan?

Wyman—I don't quite get the point. The first initial is—. (with emphasis).

Reporter—A, b, c, d, e, f—is it F?

Woman—No, it is not. P, q, r, S—it is S.

Reporter—Thank you. Now the next initial?

Woman—Mrs. S.—Smythe (with emphasis on the middle initial).

Reporter—Is it P as in Pat or T as in Tom? Shey sound just alike, too.

Woman—Oh dear; must we go all over that again? It's the letter after—.

Reporter—Do you mean the letter before U or the letter before H?

Woman—I never so long as I live will be press representative for any society again. Its the letter after the first one I gave you—r, s, t—T as in Thompson.

Reporter (iepeating)—With Mrs. S. T. Smythe—?

Woman—And please spell it right—S-m-y-t-h-e. Thank you; good-by.

Reporter (hanging up)—Same old story. I wish the telephone company would educate the subscribers.

Why Boys Leave Home.

The American boy who left home used to leavae the town as a matter of choice. Unless his parents wake up, he will soon be leaving it as a matter of necessity.

The foolish and fatal tendency of a few people to invest their money and buy their goods in distant cities at the expense of their own towns, lessening, indeed often absolutely killing, any opportunity for the boy here at home.

This town is being bled of its money to make a greater Chicago. But the great city is not long content merely with money. It demands flesh and blood, the mother's son in its gringing shops and stuffy offices, and the father's daughters for its employment and amusement.

It is having little trouble getting them, thanks to the assistance of those foolish fathers and mothers. The are teaching the child contempt for the home town and also for the home merchant. They are telling them how much better you can buy goods in the city. If you can buy better there it must be that you can live better there, thinks the son and the daughter.

The worst of it is that the parents of these sons and daughters are helping to make this true. Every time you close up or stunt the growth of a commercial or mercantile enterprise here at home you kill an opportunity for some man's son, probably your own. Every time you bleed this town of a dollar to fatten some oily-tongued rascal in the city you lessen the chance for your daughter's hapriness.

City population in this country is increasing and rural population is decreasing. According to the United States census the total population of the United States has incressed 41,816,483 since 1880; yet, of this increase but 13,965,583 has been in this country, while 27,850,945, or nearly twice as much, has been in the city. In 1890 over 70 per cent. of the people lived in the country and less than 30 per cent. in the towns. In 1910, the census shows about 54 per cent. lived in the country and 46 per cent. in the towns.

Considered in relation to the general growth of the nation, opportunity and wealth are on the decrease in the country and on the increase in the city.

And the worst of it is some people in small communities, fooled by smart advertising or false economy, are helping to hurt their own property and injure their own children and to build up the metropolis at the expense of the farm and the neighborhood.—[Gorham Mountaineer.

Shipping Carcasses to Massachusetts.

Many inquires are being made with reference to the shipping of carcasses of cattle, sheep, or swine into Massachusetts from the State. We are calling your attention to chapter 258 of the Public Laws of Massachusetts of 1912, which is given below. It is advised that parties desiring to ship into Massachusetts to apply to their local board of health, who will see that an inspector is appointed, or failing that, to the secretary of the State Board of health at Augusta.

Acts of 1912, Chapter 248, Massachusetts.

Section 1. Carcasses of meat, cattle, sheep or swine slaughtered without the commonweath shall be deemed unfit for human food and shall not be sold or offered for sale unless they have been inspected at the time of slaughter by an official inspector and unless, if not condemned, they have been stamped or branded by said inspector in like manner as those inspected by the United States Bureau of Animal Industry for interstate trade. By "official inspector" is meant one appointed or approved either (a) by the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture; or (b) by the State board of health of the state in which the animals are slaughtered; or (c) by the local board of health of the city or town in which the animals are slaughtered. The stamp used by inspectors other than those of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture shall indicate in letters not less than one-fourth of an inch high the name of the city or town in which the animals are slaughtered. Whoever sells or offers for sale, or has in his possession with intent to sell, a carcass, or any part thereof, required by the provisions of this section to be stamped or branded which has not been stamped or branded as herein provided, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

This Act was amended to take effect July 2, 1913.

Fake Consumption Cure.

Within the last five years, no less than 500 fraudulent "cures" for consumption have been tried upon thousands of victims in the United States, and the exploiters of these nostrums have reaped a clear profit of not less than $50,000,000. This is an estimate made by The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in a bulletin issued.

The National Association estimates that not less than $20,000,000 is invested in the business of manufacturing and exploring fake cures for tuberculosis, and that the annual income from these concerns and individuals is $15,000,000. About one-third of this amount is spent for advertising, leaving a profit of $10,000,000 a year, which is "blood money" taken from ignorant consumptives.

Three kinds of consumption cure frauds are distinguished by the Association, the first being the "institute" fraud, where a pseudo-hospital of dispensary is established and the wily "doctor" or "professor" administers "treatments" at so much per head. These concerns also carry on a mail order business with great profit. The second group of cures contains over a hundred different kinds of drugs and "patent" devices, any of which may be purchased at a drug store. Usually the consumptive is charged from $1.00 to $5.00 for these and the institute "cures," when he could make them up himself in exactly the same form for from one to five cents.

The third group of "cures" includes home-made remedies, whice certain self deluded individuals believe will cure tuberculosis. Among them are such things things as onions, lemons, coal smoke, pig's blood, alchol, dog oil, teas of various kinds, and a variety of diets, including goat's meat, clabbered milk and a score of other articles. These are not usually advertised for profit, but are usually given publicity in various ways.

The consumptive is the most hopeful individual in existance when the question of a cure is suggested. The National Association has stated that no specific cure for tuberculosis has been discovered, except the well-tried hygenic-dietic method of fresh air, rest and good food.

To darn table linen stretch the article smooth and tight in embroidery hoops. Remove the presser foot from the sewing machine, loosen the tension, slip the hoops under the needle and without turning the hoops, sew back and forth until the hole is neatly filled. Then turn the hoops and proceed in the same manner across the stitching already put in. The result is gratifying.

"A Victrola is the only thing I need to make my boat complete"

That's what the owner of a new motor-boat said the other day. He realized what a cheerful companion it was and how beautiful its music sounds upon the water.

If you have a boat of any kind, you'll be interested in the Victrola. And we'll gladly make you fully acquainted with it.

Stop in any time—see and hear the various styles, $15 to $200, and find out how easy you can get a Victrola right now.
